FOSTER'S WEATHER BULLETIN.

(Copyrighted 1906, by W. T. Foster.)

NOTE.—My "Crop Weather" forecasts for 1906 are now complete, are of unusual interest, are the best I have ever made and a sample of them will be mailed to anyone on receipt of a two-cent stamp. Address W. T. FOSTER, Washington, D. C., Box XI.

Washington D. C. May 26.—Last bulletin gave forecast of disturbance to cross continent 26 to 30, warm wave 25 to 29, cool wave 28 to June 1. Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 30, cross west of Rockies country by close of 31, great central valleys June 1 to 3, eastern states 4. Warm wave will cross west of Rockies about 30, great central valleys June 1st, eastern states 3. Cool wave will cross west of Rockies about June 2, great central valleys 4, eastern states 6.

The distinguishing feature of this disturbance will be its great hot wave which will affect the whole continent, beginning in Pacific states on or a little before June 1. This general hot period will cover this and the following storm wave, a moderate cool wave coming in between them and will close within a few day of June 8 with severe storms followed by a great fall in temperatures. This hot wave will cause alarm in the corn belt and eastern part of cotton belt.

Second disturbance of June will reach Pacific coast about 4, cross west of Rockies country by close of 5, great central valleys 6 to 8, eastern states 9. Warm wave will cross west of Rockies about 4, great central valleys 6, eastern states 8. Cool wave will cross west of Rockies about 7, great central valleys 9, eastern states 11.

This and the preceding disturbance will develop more than the usual intensities, and the interesting feature of this last disturbance will be the breaking up of the hot wave and a partial breaking of the drouth in the corn belt. The storms of this disturbance will be more severe than those of the last one, but they are not expected to be very dangerous.

The hottest parts of June will come the first week and the last days of the month. From 15 to 26 of June the temperatures will average below normal, very cool not far from 16 to 19. Temperatures of the month are expected to average much below normal in northeast quarter of United States and in eastern Canada including vicinity of the great lakes, normal in the southwest including all the territory adjacent to Texas. In other sections about normal.

I expect rainfall of June to be above normal in the northeastern states and eastern Canada, about normal in Texas and Mississippi, and below normal in all in all other sections east of Rockies.

This drouth is not expected to be very severe in June, but it will put the soil of many localities in such condition that the crops can not withstand a continuation of the drouth through July, should such conditions continue. The corn belt, the spring wheat belt and the east half of the cotton belt will get the worst effect of this June drouth. The most severe storms of June are expected 11 to 15 and 25 to 30. Exceedingly cool 16 to 19, most rain 7 to 17, dry 20 to 30.

CUMBERLANDS CHEERED.

Seventeen Commissioners Given a Tremendous Greeting.

Des Moines, Ia., May 26 Church union sentiment reached its highest pitch in the Presbyterian general assembly here Friday, when a delegation of seventeen commissioners from the Cumberland Presbyterian assembly was received in the assembly of the Northern church. As the hour set for receiving the visitors arrived a dead silence fell over the great convention hall containing the 700 commissioners and about 2,000 visitors. The next instant the air was rent with cheers as the gathering came to its feet following the appearance of the visiting delegation at the front doors of the assembly hall. Half the delegation was led down one aisle and half down the other, by a reception committee of prominent commissioners. Before they had progressed five feet pandemonium broke loose. Men climbed into their chairs, women leaned far out over the balconies, and every one waved a hat or handkerchief. The applause was deafening, and continued for five minutes, while the visitors were marched to the front of the hall and escorted to the stage.

The seventeen visitors were drawn up in a row facing the crowd. Stated Clerk Roberts announced to the assembly who they were, and then and there introduced them one by one to Moderator Corbett, the Cumberland moderator, Ira Landrith, being the first presented. When the moderators of the churches, which were two yesterday and one today, clasped hands, the demonstration reached its zenith, commissioners and visitors realizing actual union had at last come to pass.

As each visitor was formally introduced to Moderator Corbett he stepped forward, and that wo clasped hands, which the great hall swelled with round after round of applause. When the ceremony was concluded there was scarcely a dry eye in the auditorium. The visitors were then presented to a brief address, expressing joy and gratitude at the consummation of the reunion of the two churches. The visitors were the following:

W. J. Darby, Evansville; J. Frank Smith, Dallas; L. C. Kirkes, Amarillo, Tex.; L. T. Darby, Kirksville, Mo.; E. E. Beard, Lebanon, Tenn.; R. Landrith, Nashville; S. F. Stahl, Fort Smith, Ark.; W. J. Fisher, San Francisco; W. B. Stone, Lebanon, Tenn.; J. E. Aubrey, Sterling, Colo.; T. A. White, Anson, Tex.; U. C. Howard, Stamford, Tex.; G. S. Davis, Abilene, Tex.; J. M. Hubbert, Marshall, Mo.; J. D. Boone, Sulphur, I. T.

Action Brought About Owing to Alleged Fertilizer Trust.

Nashville, May 26.—The Federal grand jury, which has been investigating the alleged fertilizer trust, returned indictments against about eighty people.

The indictments are against about eighty fertilizer manufacturers, including a number of local men. The indictment contains six counts, detailing in specific form alleged violations of anti-trust laws, and charging defendants with combining and being engaged in a trust or combination.

PENSION BILLS PASSED.

Macon Informs Dalzell Members Do Not Vote In Corridors.

Washington, May 26.—While in committee of the whole the house Friday acted upon 215 pension bills, little or no debate ensuing.

After twenty-four bills had been passed Mr. Williams called for a division on the bill to grant a pension to James T. Sanderson of Fowler, Ind. The division showed the absence of a quorum, and the speaker directed a call of the house.

Meantime Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania appeared, and after having explained that he was in the corridor, asked if this was a Democratic filibuster against a Union soldier.

Mr. Williams—"I just want to know if the gentleman is sincere in that statement."

Mr. Macon of Arkansas called Mr. Dalzell's attention to the fact that members did not vote in the corridors, but in the house, which brought a round of applause. Bill was passed.

FIRST STEPS TAKEN.

United Presbyterians and Reformed Presbyterians May Be One.

Cedarville, O., May 26.—The first steps looking toward a union with the United Presbyterians have been taken by the general synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church, in session here. The United Presbyterian church was represented in the synod by Rev. W. H. McMillan of the Second United Presbyterian church of Allegheny, Pa., who advocated union on the ground that the devotional exercises and Psalms were the same.

One minister and one elder from each presbytery was appointed on conference on a basis of union with Rev. McMillan.

NOW IS THE TIME

Chance for Profit Offered Bryan Readers—Let no One Fail to Benefit.

Imperfect cooking and hurried eating result in indigestion. At first the stomach and digestive organs are strong enough to accommodate themselves to all manner of ill treatment, but the time soon comes when the wall of the stomach is inflamed, and the gastric juices are not secreted in sufficient quantity to digest the food, so that it is passed through the system imperfectly digested, giving but little nutrition and strength.

If one can only recognize the symptoms of indigestion in the early stages, he is then in position to protect himself by proper attention. "He is twice armed who is forewarned."

Now is the time to be benefitted. Just as soon as you find that your food can be tasted after eating, when the tongue is furred, the breath heavy, the appetite poor, the head dull and aching occasionally, then is the time for treatment with Mi-o-na.

This reliable remedy is a perfect restorer and strengthener of the whole digestive system. It restores lost functions to the stomach, strengthens the nervous system and enables one to eat what he likes without fear of distress or trouble.

So uniformly successful has Mi-o-na been in curing all stomach troubles that E. J. Jenkins gives a signed guarantee with every 50c box to refund the money if it does not cure. The risk is all his. If you have any stomach weakness, there is the opportunity to be cured without risking any of your own money.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

Mr. W. C. Boyett, the well known and popular county clerk of Brazos county, announces for re-election in the Eagle this morning, subject to the action of the democratic primaries. Mr. Boyett is probably known to every citizen of Brazos county, and needs no commendation from the Eagle to establish his merits as a citizen and an official entrusted with one of the most important offices of the county.

It is but fair to say, however, that we believe that no clerk's office in Texas has been more efficiently administered than that of Brazos county. Promptness, efficiency and courtesy strictly characterize Mr. Boyett's administration of the affairs of the office. He has held the office only one term and seeks re-election on the record he has made. The Eagle is pleased to present his claims to the voters.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

The Eagle is authorized to announce Mr. Jno. M. Lawrence as a candidate for re-election to the office of county treasurer of Brazos county, subject to the action of the democratic primaries. Mr. Lawrence is a native of Brazos county and well known to everybody as a young man possessing the personal and business qualifications that go to make up a thoroughly trustworthy and competent official. His record as county treasurer is one of unvarying efficiency, courtesy and prompt and careful attention to every obligation devolving upon him. Mr. Lawrence offers for re-election on the record he has made, which is one of which any man might feel proud, and the Eagle takes pleasure in presenting his claims.

REPLY IS RECEIVED.

Mexican Authorities Make Answer to State Department

AS TO THE SEIZURES

If Latitude and Longitude Submitted Prove Correct the American Fishing Schooners Were In Forbidden Waters.

Washington, May 26.—The state department has received through Mr. Mariscal, the Mexican minister of foreign affairs, the reply of that government to the inquiry adopted by the department relative to the grounds for the seizure by Mexican gunboats of several American fishing schooners from Pensacola, Mobile and Galveston. The minister's note states the exact spots, by latitude and longitude, where the seizures were made, and the charts make it appear that if the locations are correctly stated, the American boats were undoubtedly within Mexican waters. The fact is referred to that for a long time the waters of Campeche bay have been fished by foreign vessels without protest. But it was after having given the necessary warning to desist the Mexican government is determined to reserve all fishing rights there for its own citizens. Reefs and islands lie out in the water for many miles from the shore line, but according to the construction placed by our state department in the case of American fisheries upon territorial rights the waters surrounding these islands are closed to foreign fisheries.

As it is alleged that the American vessels were lying in close to some of these islands when fishing, it appears that there is nothing to be done now but await the outcome of the legal proceedings to take place in the Mexican courts as the result of the seizures, the American fishermen being out on bail.

But, anyhow, the copper's beat Will always lead him where he's led.

You cannot tread his lonely beat, Because he has no star to lone, But you can find the same saloon— Just follow him and you'll be shewn!

But anyhow he treads his beat, The lone policeman with his club; The reason why I'm sure you know— It's just to buy the baby's grub.

He cannot beat the baby's grub, He cannot tread the baby's beat, He cannot lone the baby's head— But he can kiss the baby's feet!

And so he treads his lonely beat And takes his snifter on the sly; For be the weather cold or hot— 'Well it's wu-u-r-th wurkin' fer the bie!"

CULTIVATE REPOSE

FRIENDLY ADVICE TO THE FIDGETY SCHOOLGIRL.

Serenity One of the Most Charming of Girlish Traits—Anger a Foe to Health and Happiness—The Art of Sitting Still—A Gentle Courtesy Robs Life of Its Friction—As a Nation, We Are All Marching on the Double Quick.

BY MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

I doubt very much whether girls between 13 and 16 ever appreciate the importance of knowing how to sit still. This is one of the lessons we learn at school, and it is fully as valuable as any lesson in science or literature, or any other department in which we are instructed. Girls are often fidgety, jumping up and rushing about when there is no need for restless activity, and changing their posture until looking at them is fatiguing to other people. Unless we learn how to sit still when we are young, we seldom master the art successfully when we are older.

I can think of a famous man whose name is honored wherever it is heard. He has one fault of manner that he has never overcome; he cannot sit still. In a drawing room he wriggles and fidgets and actually when excited bounces up and down like a ball, and wise hostesses invariably take the precaution to seat him in their strongest chairs. In church he slips down in front of the pew, leans his head on the railing, contorts himself in queer fashion, and furnishes entertainment for his neighbors and annoyance to the minister. All this could have been altered had anybody taken pains to teach the man how to sit still in his boyhood.

One of the most charming things in girlhood is serenity. It would pay a father should he spend much money in having his pretty daughter taught outward repose.

"How can I be calm and placid?" asks Josephine, "when I am bubbling up and effervescent inside? How can I look tranquil when I am angry and disturbed?"

The questions are well put, although they touch opposite aspects of the case. It is natural that girls should be bubbling up with gaiety and high spirits. A dull, stupid girl, who has no fun in her and who does not care about good times is so exceptional that we are sure she is ill and, if we are sensible, send for the doctor to look her over and tell us what to do. But one may be bright and cheerful, may laugh and be merry, and yet be so self-restrained that she will not let her fun break in upon the quiet of her friends, or so far forget herself as to force it upon them. If they are in a different mood. A girl who has learned to sit still controls her fun just as she does every other act and state of body and mind.

As to being angry and disturbed, I must say plainly that such tempers in girlhood are very unwholesome. Anger in most circumstances is a foe to health and happiness, and is like a snake in the grass or an enemy within the gates in its effect upon character. Very few people can afford to indulge anger. It is the most poisonous and upsetting of passions, and leads to no end of misery. Neither should a girl let herself be disturbed when things go a little wrong. They are bound to go wrong now and then, and when they do we must be philosophical and make the best of it. You remember Charles Dickens and his "Five-and-Twenty Tattycorum." The absurd name belonged to a charity child, who lived in the house of a philosopher, and when she threw herself into a fit of frenzy, as she sometimes did, the good man told her to count five and twenty before she said a single word. Some of us would have to count five and twenty several times before we had quite conquered our vexation, especially if we had never learned how to wait and be patient. The wise man said in the Proverbs, "Better is he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city," and no truer word was ever spoken.

One advantage given to girls who learn to dance and to boys who are taught military tactics is found in the control they gain over their muscles, and the flexibility and poise that come through movement in harmony with rhythm and law. An equal advantage would be gained should girls and boys practice sitting still. As, however, we hardly expect so much repose in the brothers as in the sisters, the latter must try to set the finer examples.

In the art of sitting still may be comprehended the low tone that is so delightful a thing in speech, and the gentle courtesy that robs life of friction. I am constantly hearing people say that they are too busy to do this or the other thing, that they are so hurried that they cannot get through the day's tasks, and that they are tired before the day begins with the mere thinking of what they have to do.

Hurry has intruded into the air we breathe, and we go whirling through the world as if we were horses on a race track. When a ferry boat is about to arrive at the dock, or a train approaches the station, the passengers spring to their feet and hasten out pell mell, as if life depended on their crowding out together and not losing an instant's time. As a nation we are all marching on the double-quick. It is fortunate for school girls that they are obliged to enter and leave class rooms with order and moderation. The good habit thus formed may stand them in stead by-and-by. A good deal of illness, headache, and nervousness would be saved if only we could take our time, wait a little, be considerate and win what a clever author has called "power through repose."

When I was a schoolgirl I had two intimate friends, one of whom was very beautiful and very mercurial, with as many changes in her face as an April sky. Every passing emotion brought its corresponding facial gesture. She was never the same for two minutes. When she was talking her whole face seemed alive with movement. The other girl was quiet and dignified, not so responsive to every breeze as her companion. Yet, nevertheless, she was sympathetic and charming. She was a rather plain girl. No one thought of her as having any claim to beauty. Twenty years after we had all left school the first girl had grown thin, angular and homely; her brow had lines that ought not to have been there, and her eager eyes flamed in a hollow face. The other was by this time beautiful. She had gained something lovely from every year that had gone over her head. She had known how to sit still and let the repose of her spirit illuminate her countenance.

A SENSIBLE COSTUME.

Neat Frock Made of Gray Tweed Trimmed with Red Velvet—The Hat a Red Straw.

A very dark gray tweed is employed for this costume. The skirt is cut with a narrow front and wide circular sides joining up the center back. The foot of the sides and back is trimmed with two shaped flounces, the upper one being sewn on under a stitched strap, the ends of which curve up each side the front.

The bolero is tight-fitting and double-breasted; it is trimmed with stitched straps, and is fastened and ornamented with tiny gun-metal buttons.

The collar is faced with dark red velvet. The deep waistband is also of red velvet worn with a red silk blouse.

The hat is of red straw, trimmed with ribbon velvet.

Material required: Five yards tweed, three and one-half yards skirt lining, three yards silk for lining bolero, and three-fourths yard velvet.

ETIQUETTE FOR THE BRIDE.

Unless something prevents, a bride should return her first calls in two weeks after receiving them. If no "day" is given, suit your own convenience.

It is better form for a husband's and wife's cards to read the same way, but if expense is an item to be considered the cards may be used as they are, for everyone understands what makes the difference.

Two of the husband's cards are always left when it is a first call, after that, unless it is a party call, they need not be left.

The cards from out-of-town people need not be returned.

Lingerie Hats.

The lingerie hats for this summer are to be more used for dress occasions than those of last year. Many of them are made on wire foundations that turn up sharply at the back and have a full bunch of flowers, often roses or violets, resting on the hair at the back. A wide embroidered strip edged with scallops is used to cover the under part of the brim and a circular piece of the embroidery comes for the crown. Around the crown is draped some soft material like maline or chiffon and this entirely covers the upper part of the brim. A piece of soft gold ribbon is often tied round the crown and gives a finishing touch.

The Big Leghorn.

One of the most welcome of the returned fashions is the big Leghorn picture hat, than which nothing better was ever invented. Such a beauty was seen this week. The wide brim was draped with a white gauze scarf, brocaded with a large gold figure, while the low crown was covered with shaded pink roses without foliage. The under brim was lined with pink satin ribbon. In the back was a huge bow of the ribbon.

First Calls.

Return all the calls received within two weeks—then it will be easy to drop from your visiting list those with whom you do not care to continue acquaintance.

New Handkerchiefs.

New handkerchiefs are plaided in white, the plaids forming cross bars also white.

Picturesque Career of Maxim Gorky

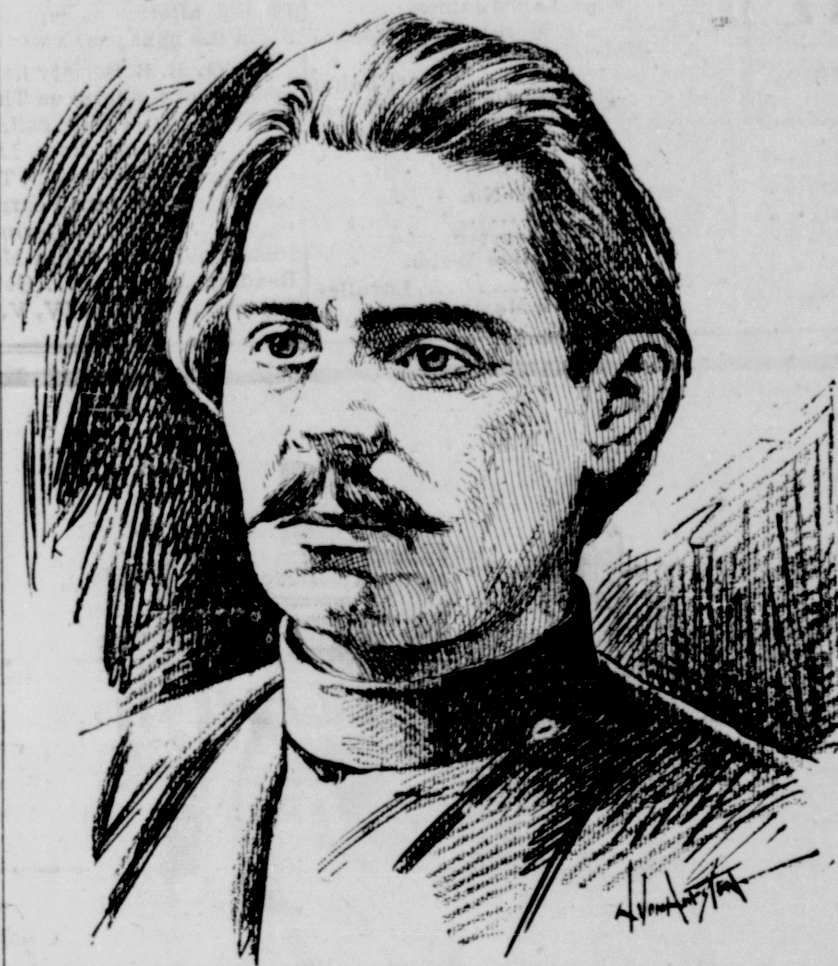

Early Life of Novelist One of Extreme Wretchedness—"The Bitter" Once a Tramp—Idol of the Russian People.

Recently there has come to this country a Russian author whose life has been as picturesque as any character by his vivid pen portrayed. Gorky, "The Bitter One," has himself dwelt in the "cellar of life," the message he brings from the underworld—and the underworld in Russia is very deep down indeed—cries from the heart of things, from the soul.

Maxim Gorky, whose real name is Alexei Maximovitch Pyeshkoff, journeyed to this country in the interests of the Russian revolutionary movement. He arrives in ill health, result of last year's imprisonment, suffered because of political offenses.

When the Russian government arrested Gorky this last time, laid hands of violence on the man whose genius was becoming recognized in many lands, a united protest was raised in Europe. In this country Gorky as yet is not well known, but those familiar with his work are most enthusiastic in their homage.

On the supposition that generally American readers are unacquainted with this most modern member of the body of great Russian novelists, let us present a list of his published works.

MAXIM GORKY.

In 1892 appeared the story "Makau Chudra;" and then followed in rapid succession "Emelian Pilyai," "Chelkash," "Konovallau," "The Orlov Couple," "The Steppe," "Malva," "Comrades," and "Twenty-six and One." "Story now succeeded story, each stark and brutal in its setting, yet each an apotheosis of pity and of poverty." With "Foma Gordyeev" Gorky came to international fame. "Foma Gordyeev" was followed by "The Trio," and his suppressed work "The Peasants." In the field of drama, too, Maxim Gorky has triumphed, produced "The Bourgeois," "The Night Refuge," "At the Bottom."

Benjamin De Casseres writing in the Critic declares Gorky is "more than Tolstoy, more than Turgenyev, the soul of the Russian people," and adds: "The philosophy of non-resistance to him is the philosophy of cowards. In his stories he has chanted the glories of strength—because he has seen the evils of weakness. 'Red Sunday' in St. Petersburg made of Gorky a world-figure. In times that try men's souls, the 'safe and sane' fly to cover; and—thank heaven—Gorky is neither safe nor sane. He typifies the spirit of revolt—has become the Byron of Russia."

Gorky's childhood and early manhood were spent in bitterest poverty. He was born at Nijni Novgorod in 1868, son of a poor upholsterer. Early left an orphan and at the tender mercies of a bigoted old grandfather, misery was his constant attendant. Five months of schooling was all that was allowed, and at the age of nine the boy was apprenticed to a cobbler. His duties evidently were not wholly confined to the shop, for we are told that one day he was set to making the cabbage soup for the family, and that, not very deft, the youthful cook got part of the contents of the kettle on himself, was very badly scalded. In anger the cobbler sent him forth, this poor little Russian Oliver Twist put out to struggle as he might.

His next employment was with a mechanical draftsman, and later he worked with a painter of ikons (sacred pictures); then one day he ran away. Next we hear of him as cook's boy on a Volga steamer. The cook, a friendly fellow, gave his helper books to read and encouraged him to form the reading habit, started Gorky to pore over any and every bit of writing he could lay his hands on. "Treatises on Freemasonry. Lives of the Saints, Gogol, Dumas, etc., were thus indiscriminately devoured while plugging the river between busy gold-domed towns. "The boy now dreamed the wild dream of entering as student at the University of Kazan, but when he made the attempt was but laughed at. Bitterly disappointed, forced to work, he settled down to toil in a stifling bakery. But the misery experienced there, coupled with an innate restlessness, drove him forth again; he peeled apples, worked as a gardener, a railway watchman and porter, and for a time was clerk in the office of an attorney. Restless, unhappy, he finally took to the road, became a tramp. He wandered far and wide, here and there in southern Russia, into Little Russia and Bessarabia, through the Crimea and the Kuban district of the Caucasus. At Tiflis, where he worked for a season as a navy, he published his first story. Christian Brinton, writing in the World's Work, says: "It is impossible not to feel that the bitter privations of this forlorn and shabby Odyssey, the ceaseless heartache and bodily anguish, were precisely those factors which contributed to Gorky's development. The young man who blundered into the office of the Tiflis "Kavsky" in soiled smock and mud-

A TIGER DRIVE.

Wishing to see something of Jung's famous method of tiger driving, I went with three gentlemen of Mr. Girdlestone's party to the neighborhood of the jungle which was to be beaten an hour or so before the time fixed for the prince's start from camp. Before we had gone half a mile, says a correspondent of the Indian Pioneer, we got a glimpse of the scale on which the maharajah conducts his operations.

For the purpose of this single beat upwards of 40 huts had been constructed, only of boughs and leaves it is true, but still huts quite as substantial as those which the Taros in the Terai consider good enough for permanent habitation. These huts were built in a perfectly straight line about 20 yards apart, this line being in fact the chord of an arc, the arc itself formed by a close cordon of elephants.

By day for several previous days these huts, open towards the arc, had been occupied by groups of soldiers and shikaries who by the noise of their chatter and the clatter of their cooking and wood cutting quite deprived the tigers in the forest in front of them of any fancy for strolling that way; and by night these sentries had maintained huge fires between each hut, which fires had the same result of barring the way during the dark hours. In front of this line of huts a path about ten yards wide had been cleared of timber so as to permit the convenient approach of the prince's elephants to the scene of action.

By this time the prince and his party were beginning to arrive, so the maharajah pushed forward to meet him, and we joined in behind. Now the plan of operations, which is indeed of the utmost simplicity, began to develop itself. The cordon of 30 or 40 elephants which I formerly mentioned, and which marked one end of the arc or semi-circle of elephants, now extended themselves in line, directly the prince's party had passed, so as to form the chord of the arc, as far as their number permitted. In the meanwhile, the prince and maharajah, with their followers, proceeded along the line of huts until they came to the last, where was the other extremity of the arc.

The elephants of our party (also perhaps 30 or 40 in number) were then extended backward so as to join hands with the pad elephants which had sufficed to furnish, say, half the chord, and then the ring of elephants around the doomed tiger was complete. Three elephants only were exempted from forming links in this chain, those of the prince, the maharajah and Gen. Probyn. These were within the ring and free to go wherever desirable, all others to keep in their places in the circle so far as intervening trees would permit, and simply press convergently to the center. Strict directions were given that no one under any circumstances was to fire except the prince. Even Jung Bahadur and Gen. Probyn would not fire unless in the case of the prince's extreme peril. Then the ring of the elephants, every mahout pressing toward the same central point and the prince and his two companions moving toward the same point, but within the ring, and a little in advance of our part of it, began to close in.

There were about 400 elephants employed. I should guess that at first there may have been on the average four yards between every two elephants. Allow six feet for the breadth of the elephant itself, and the circle may be roughly estimated, as a mile and a half round. Soon, however, the interval between the elephants dwindled to three yards, two yards, one yard. At last, except where the trunk of a tree interposed, the elephants were almost touching each other.

Before it had actually come to this a large herd of spotted deer, with two fine stags among them, had shown themselves at various points of the circle, seeking where to break through. At last, maddened by the shouting and crashing of branches as the elephants marched on and in utter desperation, one hind rushed between two elephants near me and the rest of the herd followed her.

The deer, however, had soon all passed, and the ring was again continuous. At this time a shot was heard. I could not see the prince on account of some intervening underwood, but it was, of course, he who had fired. Then came two shots in rapid succession, and the shouting of the mahouts redoubled; and the noise was indeed so alarming and stupefying to the birds within the circle that a black partridge actually flew and stunned itself against an elephant's head.

Then came a fourth shot. Still we pressed inward. Only now there was not room for all the elephants to keep in their places in the too narrow circle and a great number of pad elephants were jostled out of the front rank and had to keep in the second row. At first I could not make the tiger out, but he moved, and then I saw the beautiful beast for an instant as he crept into thicker jungle.

And now the din became deafening, the trees were crashing as if a forest was being felled, the four or five hundred mahouts shouted like a whole army of stentors, and the elephants trumpeted and ran through their entire gamut of unearthly noises. Then came one, two, three shots, with perhaps a second between each, and then cheers told us that the tiger was dead. He was a very handsome and rather large one, nine feet nine inches in length. No one, of course, had hit him but the prince, and he had given three mortal wounds. The tiger was soon mounted on a pad elephant and dispatched toward camp.

Miss Wilson's Class Recital at the Carnegie Hall Friday evening proved a rare musical treat to the large audience present. Miss Wilson's reputation as a teacher and previous successes left no room to doubt what the merit of the recital would be. Her superior musical talent together with the advantages she has enjoyed have made her not only an accomplished musician, but a most highly successful teacher. The younger as well as the more advanced pupils participated in the recital and the program, containing a varied selection from the best composers, evidenced discrimination, cultivated taste in choice of numbers. The little girl sang the "Song of the Lark" with a regard for careful interpretation that showed the capable instruction given. The work of the pupils in the more advanced exceptionally difficult numbers was of a superior brilliant and indicative cultivation.

TEXAS WOMAN'S COLLEGE NOTES.

The Mission Band met Friday afternoon for the purpose of electing officers for the next year. That the Band will be ably directed next term is guaranteed by the fact that the following young ladies were chosen as officers: Miss Adline Sanders, president; Miss Villa McCullough, vice-president; Miss Grace Morgan, secretary; Miss Bessie Bullock, treasurer; Miss Willie Mae Brockman, librarian. A rising vote of thanks was given the retiring officers, who deserve much credit for their capable administration. Miss Bessie Buchanan in particular merits the gratitude of the Band, for as their first president, she has proven herself faithful, efficient and untiring, and to her is due much of the success of the organization. After prayer the Band adjourned to meet Friday afternoon, September 14, to begin the next year's work.

The G. B. B. Society held the last meeting of the term on Thursday afternoon. After roll call, answered with quotations from Longfellow, the minutes were read. The following program was then carried out: Paper.....Corinne Carson
Piano Solo.....Villa McCullough
Reading.....Gene Dennis
Discussion of parts IV, V, VI, "The Courtship of Miles Standish" by the Society.

The young ladies have made a good beginning in their study of literature, and hope to continue the work next term with even increased interest. The society adjourned to meet Thursday afternoon, September 13, for the purpose of electing officers for next year.

Following is the program for commencement week:

Commencement sermon June 5, 11 o'clock, by Dr. Gross of Houston.
Missionary sermon, 8 p. m., Dr. Gross.

Address to the literary societies June 4, 8 p. m., by Hon. John H. Kirby of Houston.

Recital, June 5, 8 p. m.
Reception at the College, June 6.

One of the most clever, original and thoroughly enjoyable affairs given recently in Bryan was the "Carnival Party" tendered by Miss Louise Harris, sponsor of Company "C," to the officers and members of the company on Wednesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Harris. Miss Harris was assisted in receiving the one hundred and twenty-five guests by Misses Maggie McDougald, Jessie and Cora Garth, Lilla Graham McInnis and Hettie Smith. Capt. W. P. Burritt, Lieutenants Hoyo and Window, Sergeants Henkel and Bruce.

The entrance to the carnival grounds was marked by a decorated arch showing a Company "C" pennant and the grounds were brilliant with lights, flags and College colors, and gay with music, merry voices and the cry of the "spieler" who told about the attractions in regular "bike along" style. Tents sent up from Houston for the occasion were bannared to indicate the wonders within. There was the "Strong Man," the "Fortune Teller," the "Electric Theatre," the "Snake Charmer" and the "Congress of Beauties," all excellently represented and affording no end of fun. Tin horns, popcorn and other carnival necessities were also provided. An "Identity Contest" was a feature of the beauty congress, and prizes were awarded to the best guessers, Miss Mary Wilcox receiving a box of candy and Lieut. Window a silver hat mark.

On the other side of the lawn chairs and settees were provided for the merry-makers to rest and chat, and punch of refreshing quality was served by Misses Mary Ross Parker and Willie McDougald. Brick cream in red and white and angel food completed the refreshments. Miss Harris was assisted in the multiple duties of hostess by her mother, her sister, Mrs. Nellie Ballard, Mrs. Wm. Masterson of Houston and Mrs. A. J. Buchanan.

Members of Company "D," of the A. and M. corps of cadets, young ladies and others present are under lasting obligations to Miss Frances Fountain, sponsor of the company, for the novel and beautiful entertainment given in honor of the cadets of this company at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Howell last night. The charming party was given under the direction of Mrs. Howell, who was assisted by friends, and lacked no pleasing detail that would contribute to its success. The guests were received by Misses Frances Fountain, Louise Harris, Maggie McDougald, McInnis, Smith and Gibson of Calvert; Capt. Benn Gleason, Lieutenants Wright, Loving and Baines, Sergeants Smith, Bean and Wessendorf.

On one side of the wide and inviting lawn a "Gipsy Camp" was arranged with a number of the young gentlemen and ladies in the costumes of the merry, musical nomads of hill, valley and woodland. The cheerful camp fire, the boiling pot and the music of tambourines gave a touch of Romany realism to the charming scene. Fortune telling by the Gipsy arts added to the pretty make-believe, and a most appetizing picnic lunch was served.

The opposite side of the lawn was devoted to a representation of a Japanese garden with pagodas and rose arbor, with Nippon's daughters there, the fairest flowers of the kingdom, and music from stringed instruments all the while lending its charm. Punch was served from the pagodas, and later cream and cake. Games and contests afforded pleasing diversion also. The arrangements were elaborate and complete, the attendance large and everybody had a royal time.

On Friday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. A. B. Carr, Jr., who leaves in a short while for Houston, her future home, Mrs. G. S. Parker tendered an informal entertainment. The pleasing diversion of the hour was playing "five hundred." Pretty score cards soon bore the test of loss or gain as the animated game progressed. Sixteen guests were present, four tables being used for the accommodation of the enthusiastic players. Mrs. Parker's home is an ideal one and needs no decoration to enhance its beauty and comfort, but there were graceful ferns, palms, and roses in profusions. Bonbons in cut glass dishes were placed on the tables during the games. No prizes were given; as a remembrance of this lovely affair Mrs. Carr was presented a pretty vase. Cream and cake were the refreshments served. When the guests reluctantly departed it was with many compliments to the gracious hostess for the afternoon's pleasures.

The removal of Mr. and Mrs. Carr to Houston is deeply regretted by their many friends whose best wishes will follow them.

The Memorial Day exercises of L. S. Ross Chapter, U. D. C., were held by the ladies of the chapter Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. W. Sims. Following the rendition of the excellent program given below the ladies visited the cemetery and decorated the soldiers' graves, a beautiful custom which serves to inspire renewed patriotism in the hearts and minds of the living and to honor the memory of the dead. The next meeting of the chapter will be held with Mrs. F. I. Garth Friday, June 15. The Memorial Day program was as follows:
Invocation.....Dr. J. D. West
Vocal Solo—"Lead Kindly Light".....Mrs. J. Webb Howell
Reading—"Memorial of Our Confederate Dead".....Mrs. M. W. Sims
Memorial Hymn.....Chapter
Reading—"Memorial of Jefferson Davis".....Mrs. J. D. West
"We Shall Meet You Over the River".....Mesdames Howell, Boatwright, Davis, Miss Peale.
Recitation—"Our Confederate Dead".....James Johnson
Vocal Solo—"Not Lost, but Gone Before".....Mrs. W. C. Davis

A FAREWELL TO MISS ADAMS.

The first prize was won by Miss Nonie Adams, in whose honor the party was given. The second was captured by Miss Bessie Burkett, and the lone hand by Mrs. A. W. Pollard. Mrs. Kyle's guests were Miss Arabelle Gibbons, Sallie Sewall, Bessie Burkett, Mary Abbott, Minnie Lockman, Grace Norrell, Louise Brown, Tina Williams, Norma Calhoun, Daphne Palmer, Alice Banks, Lila Gibson, Aubra Tabor, Edith Paine, Lois Bourke, Verna Colby, Bernie John, Louis Kate Lea, Louise Blake, Mary Lou Hamblen, Bettie Taliaferro, Lois Krausse, Mesdames Daily of Paris, Harry Jones, Theodora Heyck of Alvarado, George Westerfield, H. W. Garrow, Jr., G. C. Street, Jr.
Miss Nonie Adams, whose visit in Houston has been the signal many charming social affairs, today for her home in Bryan Houston Chronicle.

After the prayer meeting served at the Baptist church Wednesday evening, one of the most delightful entertainments of the week was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Butler. This was an informal reception given in honor of and Mrs. Halley. The guests were received by the following officers of the Ladies Aid Society: Mrs. B. Butler, Mrs. A. J. Buchanan, Mrs. W. C. Davis, Mrs. R. S. Webb, Mrs. J. C. Williams, and Dr. G. B. Butler. The pretty cottage home was brilliantly lighted throughout and lovely roses lent their charm in all parts of the reception room. Punch was served by Miss Lucille Batte.

Dr. and Mrs. Halley are cordially welcomed by the people of Bryan and are a distinct acquisition to the church, school and social life of the community.

Busy preparations for the commencement exercises of Villa Maria Ursuline Academy are being made and teachers and pupils are all filled with the enthusiasm of the important event. The annual examinations in the academical department will be held Tuesday, June 1, followed by an "Evening with Scott," and the Ursuline Literary Club's annual banquet. A musical recital will be given Friday, June 8, with an elaborate program. Saturday, June 9, will be Class Day, and Monday, June 11, will mark the fifth annual commencement exercises. A usual program of rare excellence will be given on this occasion.

The Needle Workers, who have held no meetings during the school terms, will resume their club entertainments in a short time, holding the first meeting with the president, Miss Lucille DeMaret, on June 8. The officers of the club are Miss Lucille DeMaret, president; Miss Mary McInnis, vice-president; Miss Rowena Rhodes, treasurer; Miss Irene Board, reporter.

Several couples of young people enjoyed an informal hop at Elk hall Tuesday evening. Present were Misses McCounico, McDougald, Harris, Smith, Florence and Bessie Herndon; Messrs. Wood of College, Will and Hal Saunders, Robinson, Milton Parker, Oliver, Dunlap, Stevens and Smith.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

WELCOME TO WRIGHT

American Ambassador to Japan Presents Credentials.

HONORS PAID TO HIM

Court Master of Ceremonies Takes United States Minister in Imperial Carriage and Escorted by Guards.

Tokio, May 26.—Ambassador Wright, accompanied by members of the American embassy and ladies of the party, proceeded to the palace Saturday to present his credentials to the emperor. The court master of ceremonies went to the embassy to convey the ambassador to the palace in an imperial carriage, and troops of the imperial lancers acted as a guard of honor. This brilliant procession reached the palace through the main gate, which is reserved for their majesties and princesses of the imperial house and visitors arriving and departing on state occasions.

It is reported that the emperor was most cordial in his reception of the ambassador and his suite, who were afterward received in audience by the empress.

Mr. Wilson, former secretary, and until recently charge d'affaires of the American legation here, who it has been announced is to succeed H. H. D. Pierce as third assistant secretary of state, will start for home May 29.

GREATER AND GRANDER.

Within a Year San Francisco Will Be a Magnificent City.

Chicago, May 26.—"Within six months the new San Francisco, with its wide driveways and handsome buildings, will be well advanced," said Architect Daniel H. Burnham. "In a year's time it will not be easy to find a trace of the devastation left by the earthquake."

Mr. Burnham has just returned from San Francisco. He had been called there by the committee of citizens that had been instrumental in inducing him two years before to prepare plans for a model system of driveways, parks and public places. Former Mayor Phelan was chairman of the committee.

"The plans," said Mr. Burnham, "were adopted in their entirety at a meeting on Monday. The principal talk in San Francisco at the present time is rebuilding. The pride of the citizens appears to have been touched by the disaster, and even the poorer people are preparing to build again on a more substantial and artistic scale."

"My views were chiefly desired along the line of modifications or extensions in the plans that I suggested for the streets and parks. I was asked for suggestions also as to public buildings and recommended that they all be made strictly fireproof."

"The new city will radiate from the city hall and that locality. One of the beneficial effects of the earthquake was the destruction of the old city hall."

"San Francisco of the future will be the most beautiful city on the continent, with the exception of Washington."

It will afford seats for 7,000 and be put up on the site of the old Central theater, at Eighth and Market streets. It was in this tent that the benefit for the sufferers was held at Chicago and $15,000 netted. ENA AT MADRID

Future Queen of Spain Enters the Capital City of Nation.

Madrid, May 26.—The arrival of the future queen of Spain at the Pardo palace Friday evening was the signal for a magnificent ovation to the new sovereign. At 6:30 o'clock the royal train reached the outskirts of the palace park. Here a special station had been prepared, consisting of a majestic floral arch beneath.

It was dusk as Alfonso and Princess Ena entered the floral station. The queen's mother embraced her son and his prospective bride.

The party then entered carriages and drove to the palace. After entering the palace King Alfonso directed that the public be admitted to the grounds. The crowd surged up the avenue, forming a dense throng. Then the king appeared on the balcony holding Princess Ena by the hand. The crowd stood with bare heads, too greatly impressed to cheer.

Later in the evening King Alfonso returned to the royal palace, the princess remaining with her mother in Pardo palace until the wedding.

Washington, May 26.—The senate Friday passed the agricultural appropriation bill carrying an appropriation of $78,800,000, and without a word of debate or an objection from any source added to it as an amendment, the bill providing for inspection of fresh meats intended for domestic consumption.

It also authorizes inspection of all animals before they enter the packing houses, and requires that those establishments shall be maintained in a sanitary condition; gives the inspectors access to all departments of them, and forbids interstate commerce in fresh meats which are not marketed by the inspection. Malakoff, Tex., May 26.—Sallie Fleming, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Andy Fleming, colored, was found dead near the road leading from her father's home. An inquest, conducted by Justice Trotman, developed the fact that the girl had left her father's home Tuesday morning to do the weekly washing for the family of Mrs. James Chapman, two miles away, and, not returning home at nightfall, search was instituted with the above result. A bullet hole through the head by a 38-calibre pistol revealed the cause of death, but no clue was developed as to the perpetrator of the crime.

Washington, May 26.—Senator Clapp introduced a bill in the senate to remove the restrictions on the alienation on the lands of the five civilized tribes of Indians. It authorizes the secretary of the treasury to inaugurate an investigation of the lands with views to classifying mineral lands because of supposed deposits of coal, oil or gas. The president is authorized to give notice by proclamation of the classification, and he may eliminate such lands as are shown not to have such deposits. All restrictions on the alienation of lands which have been or may be allotted are removed except as to full bloods, minors, homestead and lands which may be classified as coal, oil or gas lands. It is provided, however, that no agricultural leases for a term of more than one year, nor any mineral lease lands from which the restrictions are not removed, shall be valid unless approved by the secretary of the interior, and shall be subject to such regulations as he may prescribe. On land under which the restrictions are removed shall be alienated without the approval of the secretary.
